ER Model

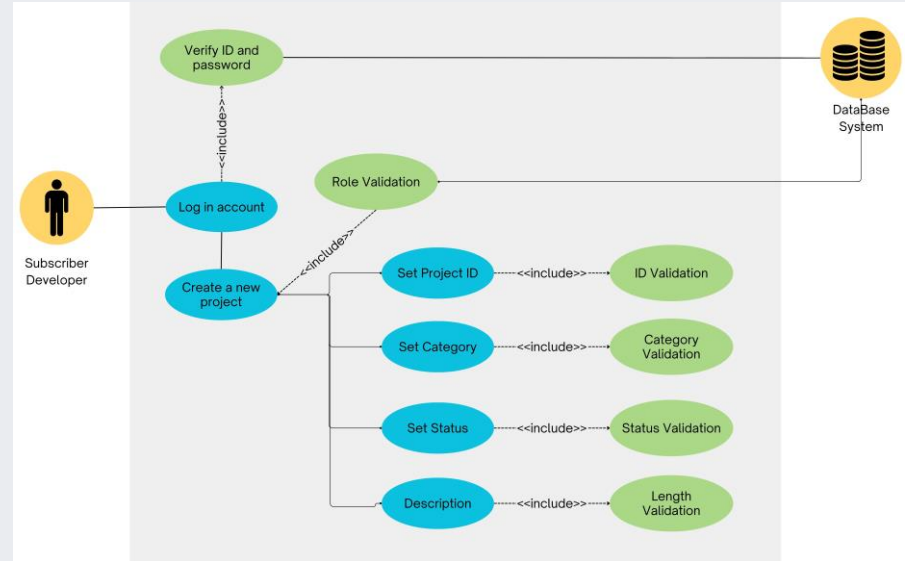

Use Cases

Use Case 01 – Create a new software project

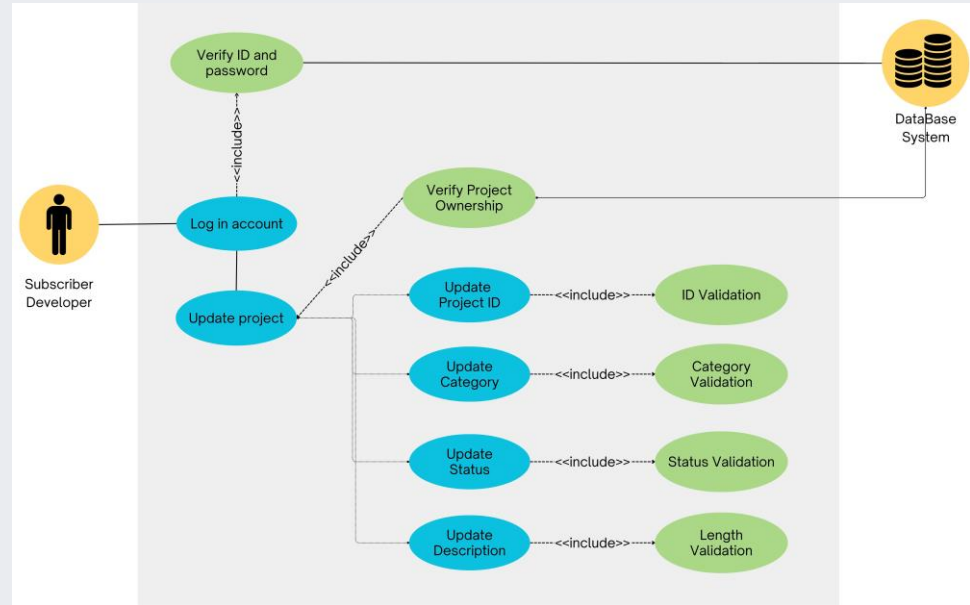

As a subscriber developer (the only one allowed to create projects) I want to create a new software project on the website. This involves assigning a unique project ID, choosing one or more categories from A, B, C, and D, setting its status to either D (Development) or P (Production), and providing a brief description (up to 256 characters) for the project.

Use Case 02 - Update software project

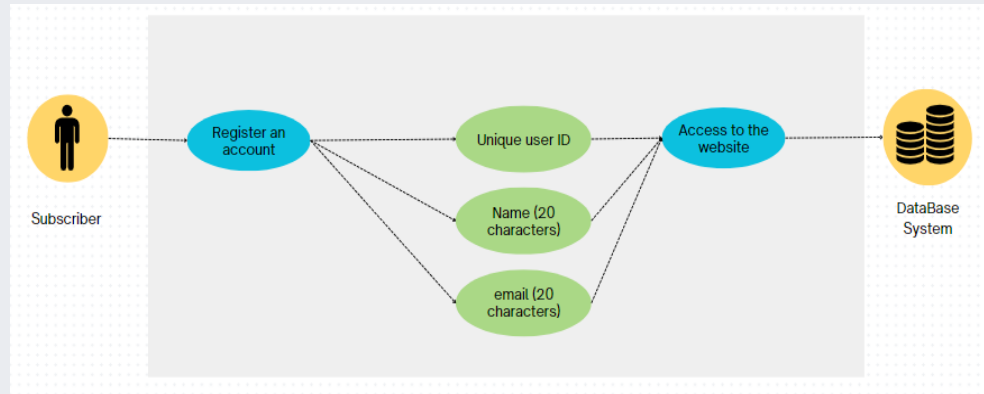

As a subscriber developer, I want to make an update on a project. Each update for a project must be created by a single developer, the one who originally created the project.

Use Case 03 – Register an account

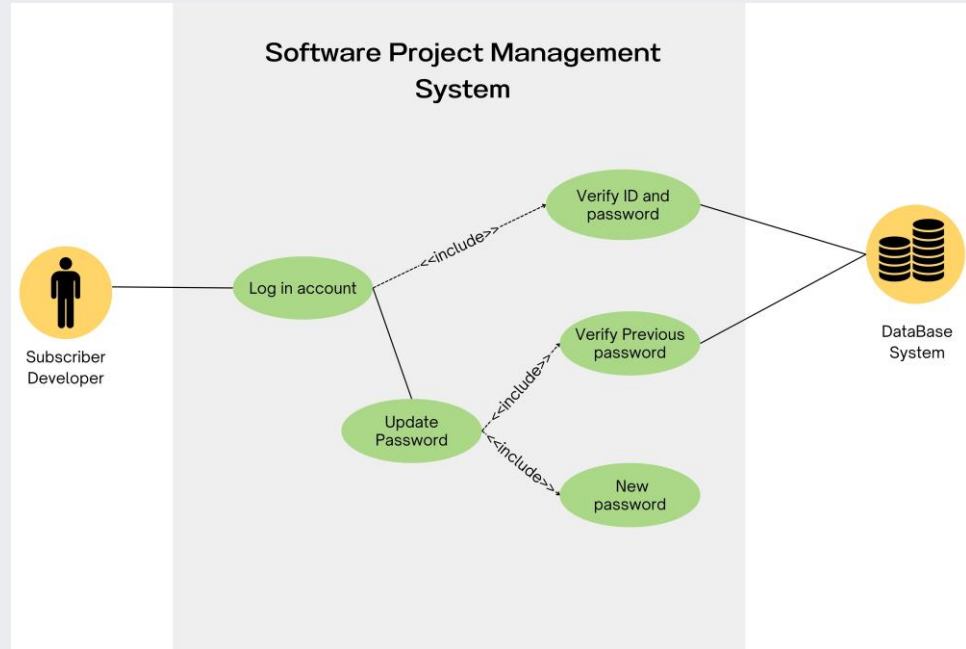

As a subscriber, I want to register an account with a unique user ID, a name (up to 20 characters), and an email address (up to 20 characters) to gain access to the website.

Use Case 04 – Update password

As a subscriber, I want to update my password.

Use Case 05 – Create and update patch for my project

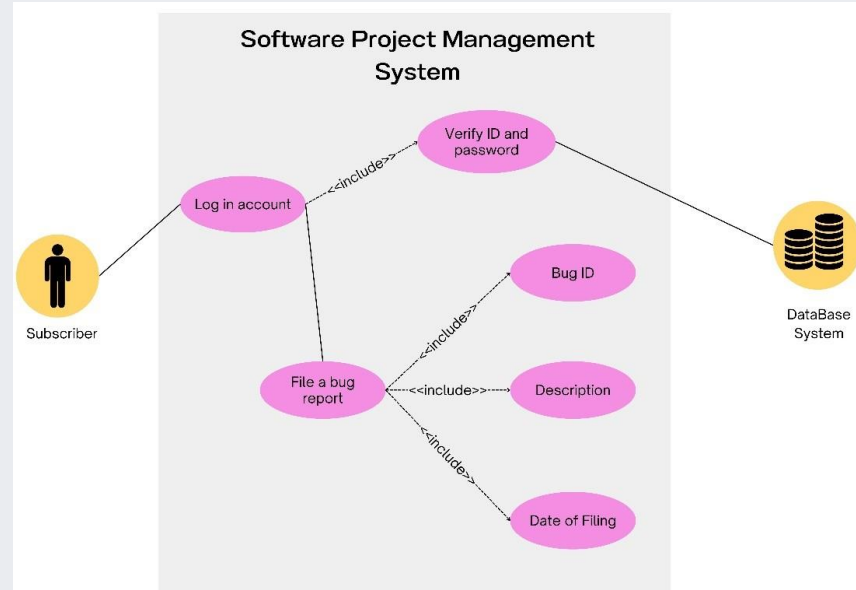

As a subscriber developer, I want to create an update patch for my project, providing a unique update ID (8 characters long), a name (up to 20 characters), a status (P or U), a description (up to 256 characters), and assigning a type (1, 2, or 3).

Use Case 06 – Bug Reporting

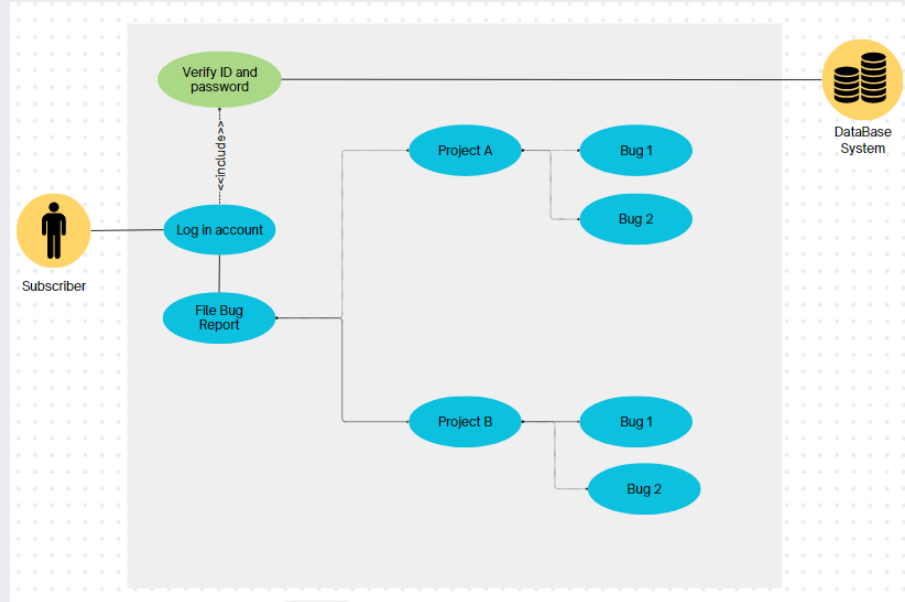

As a subscriber, I want to file a bug report for a specific project, providing a unique bug ID, a description (up to 256 characters), and recording the date of filing (cannot be empty).

Use Case 07 – Bug IDs

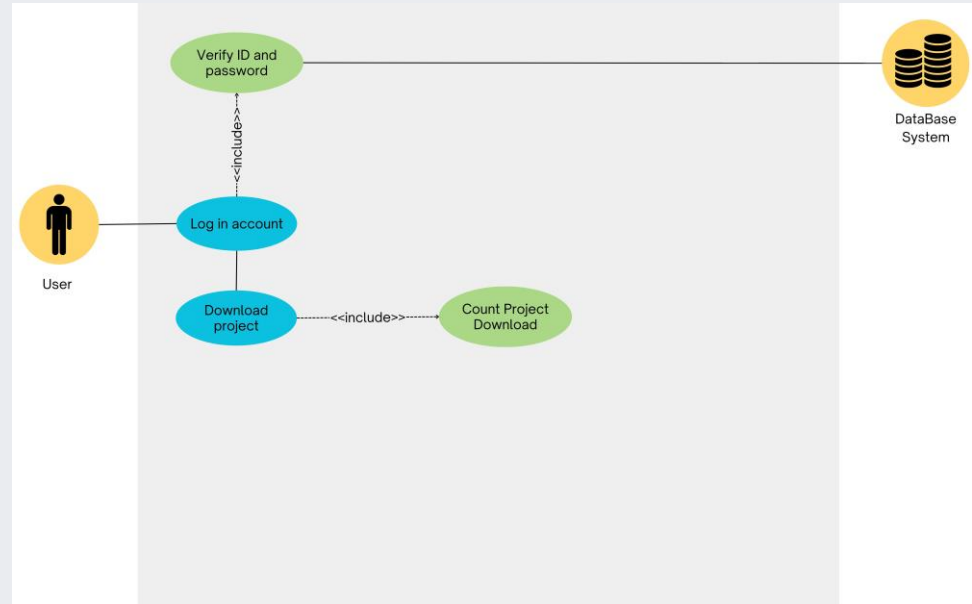

Bug reports must have unique IDs and descriptions and be distinct within each project. Each report focuses on one project and one bug, submitted by one subscriber.

Use Case 08 – Tracking user downloads

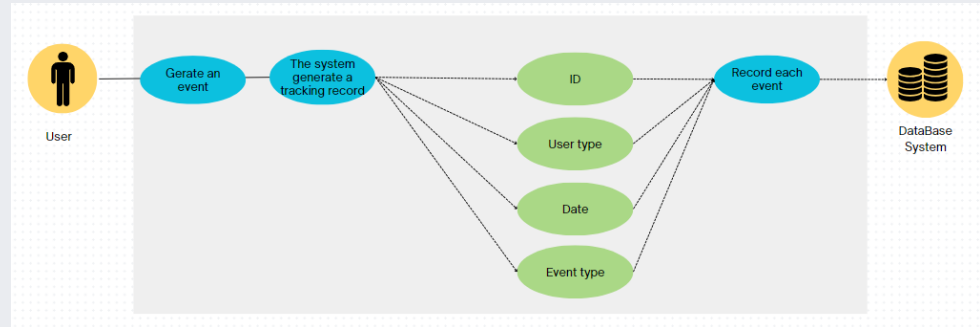

As a user (guest user, subscriber, or subscriber developer), I want to download a software project from the platform. The system should record the number of downloads per user per project.

Use Case 09 – Generate a tracking record

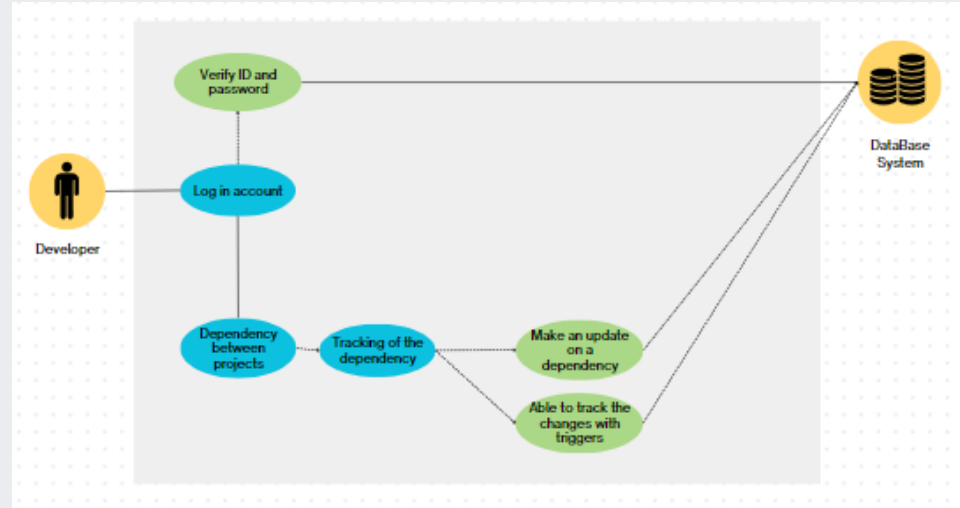

The system generates a tracking record for each new event created by any user, including ID, user type, date, and event type.

Use Case 10 – Tracking of dependencies

Some projects may depend on other projects, and it requires to make an update on the dependency to keep track of them and be able to track the changes with triggers.
